Dear Folkestone Academy families

Since becoming Head of School at Folkestone Academy I have had the pleasure of meeting a number of parents and I have welcomed hearing your views on what works well and the areas we need to improve on. I am from this community and I am determined to ensure that Folkestone Academy is a school we can all be proud of.

I believe that one of the keys to successful education is good and open communication. By that I mean communication between staff, between pupils; between staff and pupils as well as crucially, between the school and parents and carers. Working together we can help your sons and daughters reach their full potential so that they can leave the Academy prepared for their future career.

My ambition is to meet every single family between now and the end of term and to achieve this I will be hosting a series of sessions which will be open to all of you. At these sessions I will talk about my vision for the school and you will be able to meet the new Heads of Year and year teams and ask any questions you have.

These sessions will be bookable and we will run a number for each year group to maximise opportunities for you to attend. Details will be published later this week.

I look forward to seeing you at one of these sessions.

Yours sincerely

Wesley Carroll
Head of School
